CULTIVATION OF PERSONALITY BY TEACHERS URGED

HYDRANT FROZEN, FIRE LOSS $15,000 AT FAIRCHANCE

Advantages Viridly Painted By Dr. White at Institute.

FINAL SESSIONS TODAY

Initial Joint Gathering of Educators of City and Dunbar Township Will Go Down As An Epoch In Educational Activity In This Section.

Two addresses carrying important messages to the teachers of the Connellsville and Dunbar township public schools attending the combined institute of the two districts marked the opening session of the last day's program this morning at the high school auditorium.

Dr. Charles Rosier, principal of the state normal school at Fairmont, W. Va., gave the first talk, followed immediately by Dr. Jesse H. White who spoke on "The Individual With the Gift of Way." The two speakers were cut somewhat short and the institute closed just before 11 o'clock to allow a full 15-minute conference between the teachers and the two speakers, a session being arranged for each study hall.

"Personality" was the high light in Dr. White's talk. The necessary qualities of personality were given by him. If a man wants to impress others as having a personality of strength and confidence, he must never at any time do anything that will interfere with his personality. When alone he should do things which would detract from his personality in public.

"Personality is a prominent element of great persons," declared Dr. White. He said there were three requisites for personality, physical health, exercised in such a way that people will be surprised by his will power and personal traits, of a kind which will attract people.

"If you would help a boy attain personality," he told the teachers, "you will help him cultivate his will. Personality is not inherited. It is acquired."

Dr. White, discussing "personal traits," said there were two kinds, positive and negative. A negatively personality, he declared, might be discouraging or inability of a person to work to his interests and keep a positive. Positive traits were those which caused people to warm up to a person, he said.

The old mental pose went with positive traits. He said a teacher needs to cultivate positive traits. "If you don't have mental pose," he said, "you will make a mistake some day, and say something you should not which will take a long time to correct."

The institute was opened by traditional exercises by Rev. G. L. C. Henderson. The quartet composed of Superintendent J. H. Pike of Somerton, Miss Anna Garlock and Mr. W. Basford of the local faculty and Miss Ruth Burnham of Dunbar township, sang. The afternoon session today opened with a duet by E. W. Hazlewood and Superintendent Pike.

At Friday afternoon's session Dr. Pearson spoke on "The Master American." The American is produced, he said, and the man who achieves mastery must achieve it by his own hand.

Dr. Rosier of Fairmont, W. Va., began his address with a talk on education. He said we reflect our soul in our dress and it is a change in styles which breaks the monotony of our lives.

Dr. White yesterday afternoon spoke on "Making the Best of Times Experiences." He said, speaking of the experience of a student, that crowding a child's mind too much will mature it too soon. He dealt for some time on the subject and discussed it thoroughly. Dr. White also said that a teacher must use practical judgment in emergencies. Experience is of no use in such cases, he declared. "To teach properly a person must know the subject, know how to teach it, and know how to make practical judgment an effect."

The afternoon session today closed the institute.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

Is Urged by the State Convention of School Directors.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 7.—The state convention of school directors, recently adopted resolutions calling on the state to increase or increase salaries of teachers because of the advancing cost of living. At the same time the directors urged that the Legislature take steps to clear the Woodruff teachers' salary increase act of 1919.

WORRY OVER TRAGIC DEATHS OF FATHER AND MOTHER CAUSES OHIOPYLE GIRL TO END LIFE

Her mind apparently deranged because of the tragic deaths of her father and mother, Miss Dolly, with her sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Marietta, 21 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Marietta of Mill Run, drowned herself in the Youghiogheny river at Ohiopyle this morning, leaping through a hole in the ice just above the county bridge. That is the theory, at least, footprints leading to the spot.

Miss Marietta's father, Ross Marietta, was drowned in the reservoir of the Mountain Water Supply company at Mill Run junction a few years ago and about a year ago her mother died of burns suffered at her home on the same floor and whose family occupied the apartments on the second floor. They had barely time to escape.

The fire started in the store room of Tony Farrioli on the first floor of the building. It was discovered by August Boulangue, whose grocery store is on the same floor and whose family occupied the apartments on the second floor. They had barely time to escape.

The fire started between 4 and 5 o'clock. When the flames reached the scene they found the hydrant frozen and by the time connection was made with a more distant one the blaze was beyond control. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The damage to the Conway residence was confined to the breaking of windows and blasting of paint.

MRS. UHL ON STAND

Slayer of Bryan Powell Tells Dramatic Story of Affair.

By Associated Press.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 7.—Mrs. Kate Uhl, charged with the murder of Bryan Powell, took the witness stand today here in her own defense.

"I was lying on a couch in my house when Powell entered the room and locked the door," said Mrs. Uhl. "I struggled with him and when my husband entered the house, Powell got up and fled up the stairway but my husband would not let me explain. We quarreled all night and my husband ordered me to leave."

"It was because I feared that I would be separated from my husband, and my children that I later begged Powell to tell him it was not my fault. He only chuckled and said if any but a lawyer of the council of the defense would be present, he would not be allowed to speak. He was injured while navigating the boat through the storm, was among those landed.

Coast guards patrolled the beach all night, ready for the perils of the sea.

Contractors Report Numerous Inquiries For Prices and Prospects.

HIGH COST BIG FACTOR

Building Trades Seeking Higher Wages and This May Have An Influence Against Great Activity; Several Structures Under Consideration.

If the unforeseen does not happen a good year for building will be recorded for 1920. According to contractors of the city they have a number of contracts under consideration and may have all they can to handle. The looker for building boom is produced as a result of the house shortage.

Contractor W. L. Whaley has already closed contracts for four houses. Two of these are to be modern houses within the city and the other two are frame ones to be erected along the brick road outside of Cumberland.

Ground for the two frame dwellings to be built for Andy and John Neary, has already been broken. Ground has also been broken in Morristown Avenue for a modern brick house for Joseph Bowyer. The building will be brick veneer. The contract price is $8,500.

Another modern house to be erected will be that of Mrs. Matie Miller in East Crawford Avenue. Contractor Whaley will start it as soon as the snow leaves. The house will be a modern white brick.

Contractor A. C. Herwick said he had turned down some contracts for homes on account of a large amount of old work to be done by him which has been held up by the cold weather. He has two houses under construction which must be completed and has three contracts which he will probably sign next week, he said.

Mr. Herwick said he believed prospects were fairly good for the spring, if unsolved questions did not arise and the cost of building did not go any higher.

The construction companies of the end of the year will be at the end of the half of the year. Persons intending to build the score being 10. At the end of the year are only now beginning to announce the third quarter the visitors end of the year are to be taken as an evidence of what is to follow, there will be a "deadly lull" this spring, as one man expressed it.

In addition to the new contracts also have a number of contracts point ahead at the end of the half of the year. Persons intending to build the score being 10. At the end of the year are only now beginning to announce the third quarter the visitors end of the year are to be taken as an evidence of what is to follow, there will be a "deadly lull" this spring, as one man expressed it.

Grover Allen of Adelaide, who was admitted to the South Side private hospital yesterday for treatment of injuries suffered in the mines at Broadfoot, is resting easily today and is getting along as well as can be expected. The young man suffered no broken ribs, but has a number of lacerations. His condition is not considered serious. The young man is a veteran of the war and he saw service in France.

NEXT MOVE IN EXTRADITION UP TO BERLIN

Allied Conference Insist Action Taken By Entente is Warranted.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Delivery to the German government by the French charge in Berlin of the list of Germans whose extradition is demanded by the Allies is the proper course to pursue in the existing circumstances, the council of ambassadors decided today. The action was made known through an official communiqué, which read:

"The council of ambassadors is unanimous of the opinion that the list should be delivered to the German government in the charge of affairs of France in the name of the Allies.

"It is understood that in the discussion the anti-socialists took the view that the entire question now is up to Germany and the further steps by the Allies should await the action of the German authorities.

"The revival in the channel of the existing practice of issuing official communiques provoked considerable comment. It was taken as indicating that the entire question now is up to Germany and the further steps by the Allies should await the action of the German authorities.

ANNOUNCEMENT

More Bread—More Health—More Wealth

A learned historian once told us: "Bread, health and wealth are inseparable."

He had observed in his studies that nations rich in Bread always boasted healthy and prosperous people.

You don't have to be a historian or economist to understand the reason for this condition.

Bread, since the beginning of civilization, has been man's best food—building brain, bone and muscle.

Bread is the most nutritious of all foods, weight-for-weight, and the only economical food today.

A pound-and-a-half loaf of Bread will do the work of six pounds of beef or eight eggs.

A bountiful diet of Bread means a big saving on high-priced foods.

A bigger Bread appetite means a gain in health and purse.

Keep your bakers busy. Eat—"Two Slices for One."

Connellsville-baked Bread is Bread at its best—always wholesome, tempting and highly nutritious.

THE BRUNSWICK

IT is our pleasure to announce Brunswick Records, another super-product by the "House of Brunswick"—artistic companions of Brunswick Phonographs.

They are made under the direction of great interpreters—men who have the power and faculty of developing musical selections as the composers would have them played.

Just as there are directors for the opera, the stage, the orchestra, we now have directors for records.

This means that each Brunswick Record is not only the work of some accomplished artist, but is accompanied by the shadings of a renowned director.

This is why Brunswick Records rise above the qualities most records have in common.

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky.—"I suffered almost two years with female weakness. I could not walk any distance, ride or take any exercise at all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would tire my sickness. I had no energy, and life was misery to me. I was under the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself greatly improved, and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a State Hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and shall always recommend it."—LILLIAN THARP, 324 S. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

TIME TO FREE COAL AND COKE

The opinion of the examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission that there exists no justification for the continuation of the war-time demurrage rules on coal is so much in accord with reason and common sense that the commission ought to confirm the finding and order an amendment of the excessive rate.

As pointed out by the examiner conditions following the signing of the armistice were so radically different from what they were at the time the $5 per car per day rate was imposed that no arbitrary rule or regulation no matter how drastic, could have had appreciable effect. The failure to do so continues the pre-armistice rule until March 1919 served as a distinct hardship upon shippers and added another to the heavy burden the coal industry has been obliged to bear. It is but a matter of equity and justice that shippers who have refused to bend the exorbitant charges they were obliged to pay when transportation and market conditions were so hopelessly乱了

Although 18 months have elapsed since the actual ending of the war the coal industry is still subject to the war-time price restrictions and only recently was it released from a re-imposition of the diversion and concentration powers so ruthlessly exercised by the Railroad Administration. One of all the basic industries coal and coke production and marketing have been made to feel the tyrannizing weight and injustice of government regulation. Mean time the coal industry has suffered from prolonged strike in the so-called steel mills of which the political ambitions of Attorney General Palmer has played fast and loose with every detail of evidence, common sense and sound economic and business principle.

If the time has arrived when the war-time demurrage rules are no longer just fit by virtue of the return to a much harder and more bitter industry, the time is here to free coal and coke of the burdens of government regulation in every form.

DISMISSED ACTION OF FARMERS

While there is much to be found in the replies of farmers to a questionnaire sent out by the Post Office Department to educate a widespread spirit of unrest and dissatisfaction that is alarming in some of its aspects it is a mistake to assume as some have done that the economic structure of the country is on the verge of a serious disturbance.

It is true however that the answers given reveal the existence of conditions and a feeling on the part of certain classes of farmers which constitute a menace to the stable growth and expansion of the most fundamental of our industries. It becomes plain from these replies that certain items must be remedied if the time is to be that increase in farm production which the country absolutely needs. There must be an amelioration of certain farm conditions if farming is to be made an occupation that will retain young men raised in farms or draw labor to them as means of keeping the ranks recruited to such strength as will be necessary to provide sufficient foodstuffs to our rapidly growing population.

The principal retarding factors in the business of farming at the present prevailing are indicated in the following summary of the replies received from upwards of 40,000 farmers in various sections of the country east and west middle west and south. Inability to obtain labor to work the farms, hired and the farmers' children having been attracted to the city at higher wages and easier living. High profits taken by middlemen for the mere handling of food products. Lack of proper agencies of contact between the farmer and the ultimate consumer.

The reply of a Missouri farmer may be taken as typical of the first of these conditions. I am most sorry to say he says. For help in flocking to the cities here in short hours high wages and the promise of a good time. Someone I fear is going to suffer if this condition is not remedied.

A New York farmer observes practically the same conditions existing in his section. The time is very near he writes when we farmers will have to curtail production and raise only what we need for our own use and let the other fellow look out for themselves. Labor in our case is more to blame for the high prices than any else. People are trying to get paid for what they do not earn.

The second condition is succinctly set forth by a middle west farmer who said. The farmer has to take a hard look on man and let me tell you it will pay him for it probably. He is compelled to pay whatever he deems safe for his clothes, farm machinery and other necessities.

A Hinsontown Md. farmer appre-hends this by writing. To reduce the cost of my foodstuffs to the consumer you must fit farm to me with first class labor at reasonable wages and second you must eliminate those ads of middlemen who are robbing the people wholesale.

There can be no gainsaying the fact that these expressions correctly represent conditions with which farmers generally are much dissatisfied. But they do not regard them as just remedies they are properly and consistently urge the necessity for the application of remedies. They realize that as was expressed in a memorial to Congress by seven national farm organizations the same economic laws will continue to prevail as prevailed before the war. It is because of a disregard of these laws by those who have become non-producers that the conditions of which the farmers complain now exist. There must be a restoration of the proper balance between production and consumption. The fundamental laws of economics will correct this in time of peace. The producer must be awarded a more adequate share as an incentive to produce beyond his own needs or the non-producer must produce in order to provide for the shortage that must inevitably become increasingly acute.

Like the Hispanian who was in the right and very seldom wrong. Friend Wilson is all right in that he is the only person who can determine what the Senate should do with the peace treaty.

With 5000 men now residing from 5000 farms for fuel, profiting we are given an idea of just how ruthless the campaign of the Department of Justice really is.

The leaders of communities and the bar association has had a profitable three days and we trust a nelson minnow here.

TARZAN AND THE Jewels of Opar

By EDGAR RICE
BURROUGHS

Author of
"Tarzan of the Apes"
"Son of Tarzan"

Copyright, 1920, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

Mechanically the man's fingers felt of the object, resting almost in the grasp; it was a soft pouch, filled with small, hard particles. Werper gasped in wonderment as recognition filtered through the incredulity of his mind. It was impossible, and yet—it was true!

Feverishly he strove to remove the pouch from the ape and transfer it to his own possession; but the restricted radius to which his bonds held his hands prevented this, though he did succeed in tucking the pouch with its precious contents inside the waistband of his trousers.

Tarzan, sitting at a short distance, was busy with the remaining knots of the cords which bound him. Presently he flung aside the last of them and rose to his feet. Approaching Werper he knelt beside him. For a moment he examined the ape.

"Quite dead?" he announced. "It is too bad—he was a splendid creature, and then he turned to the work of liberating the Belgian.

He freed his hands first and then commenced upon the knots at his ankles.

"I can do the rest," said the Belgian. "I have a small pocket knife which they overlooked when they searched me, and in this way he succeeded in ridding himself of the ape-man's attentions that he might find and open his little knife and cut the thong which fastened the pouch about Chulka's shoulder and transfer it from his waistband to the breast of his shirt. Then he rose and approached Tarzan.

"Now," said the ape-man, "keep your promise to me. Lead me to the spot where you last saw my wife."

It was slow work pushing through the jungle in the dead of night behind the slow-moving Belgian. The ape-man chafed at the delay, but the Belgian could not swing through the trees as could his more agile and muscular companions, and so the speed of all was limited to that of the slowest.

The two had gone but a short distance when the rearing of distant lions fell upon their ears. The ape-man paid no attention to the familiar sounds until the crack of a rifle came faintly from the same direction, and when this was followed by the shrill neighing of horses and an almost continuous fusillade of shots intermingled with increased and savage tearing of a large troop of lions, he became immediately concerned.

"Someone is having trouble over there," he said, turning toward Werper. "I'll have to go to them—they may be friends."

"Your wife might be among them," suggested the Belgian, for since he had again come into possession of the pouch he had become fearful and suspicious of the ape-man, and in his mind had constantly revolved many plans for eluding this giant Englishman, who was at once his savior and his captor.

At the suggestion Tarzan started as though struck with a whip.

"God!" he cried, "she might be, and the lions are attacking them—they are in the camp. I can tell from the screams of the horses—and there! that was the cry of a man in his death agonies. Stay here, man—I will come back for you. I must go first to them," and swinging into a tree the lithe figure swung rapidly off into the night with the speed and silence of a disembodied spirit.

For a moment Werper stood where the ape-man had left him. Then a cunning smile crossed his lips. "Stay here?" he asked himself. "Stay here and wait until you return to find me and take these jewels from me? Not I, my friend, not I!" and turning abruptly eastward Albert Werper passed through the foliage of a hanging vine and out of the sight of his fellow man—and forever.

Chronic Constipation. There are people who never have a movement of the bowels without it is produced by cathartics. Most of them have brought that condition in themselves by the use of mineral waters and strong cathartics that take too much water out of the system and aggravate the disease they are meant to relieve. A mild laxative tonic like Chamberlain's Tablets affords a gentle movement of the bowels that you hardly realize has been produced by a medicine, and their use is not so likely to be followed by constipation.—Ad.

Fortify Your System Against Attacks and Their After-Effects.

Daily the press dispatches furnish new and more alarming accounts of the return of influenza. To every reader of the same must come the queries, "Has my system the power to ward off this? If not, will it withstand the after-effects?"

Ever since this epidemic began these columns have carried statements signed by well known fat victims whose systems were rebuilt after weeks and months of suffering by the use of Nerv-Worth, and what it did in rebuilding the floundered system it can and will do to fortify it against attacks.

Nerv-Worth druggists and salesmen, after freely comparing notes, declare that the fewest number of their customers who took Nerv-Worth regularly, last winter and spring were visited by the disease.

Begin to take Nerv-Worth now. Nip the very first signs of influenza in the bud. Fortify your system by taking Nerv-Worth right along for weeks. Your forethought will not be lost even if the epidemic does not affect you, for Nerv-Worth strengthens and strengthens the nerves, aids flesh, aids digestion, whets the appetite; rouses the liver, regulates the bowels, restores restful sleep, banishes sick and nervous headache and other aches and pains, builds up run-down systems; and this is a great work to do for ailing humans, influenza or no influenza.
